

From: Dorothy Couturier
To: zzMSHA-OSRVRegulatoryReform
Subject: Inspicktions
Date: Thursday, March 08, 2018 12:03:04 PM

---

Inspicktions are good but the things they find wrong at times don't justify the fines they impose on the mine. House keeping is fine but they take it way to far! .

The mining industry is dangerous and we all know this .We don't have to be pennilied for it through fines for now big justification. If the government thinks they know better they should pay for all the fines that really don't keep anyone safe. The money is there and the government thinks fines will keep use safe. Accidents happen fines won't stop them. IM not saying the inspections are not helping. If the government think we need this type of inspection they should pay for it. There more people being killed in every which way and in ,more circumstance why should the mines be fined with inspections? It don't make sense to me.We are being taken advantage of or harmed with the goverment behind the laws they connived to help us . Everyone wants to be safe but the law is counting the mines money to now avale to them .Yust the law!

Sent from my iPad